ACR Software

We are happy to provide a testimonial for ACR software whose job costing system we have used now for a good number of years.

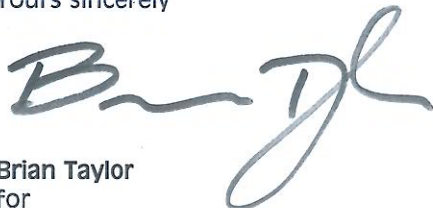

We are a small architectural practice with excellent systems in place for internal management of projects and their costs so it is essential that we have reliable information at all times.

Alston stepped into the frame when our last internet based job costing software provider went down and the system has proved to be relatively simple to establish, maintain and operate. We are able to interrogate the data easily and provide accurate job costs in a matter of minutes.

Alston has proved to be extremely helpful, knowledgeable and approachable if we have any queries and we have no hesitation in recommending him and ACR Software to anyone.

I trust that this meets with your requirements

Yours sincerely
